

Save Eggs for Next Winter

UNCLE SAM, in the Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletin No. 128 and "Back Yard Poultry Leaflet," highly recommends using WATER GLASS EGG PRESERVER.

Water Glass (solution of sodium silicate) is easy to use and will keep eggs from six to ten months and, in some cases, even a year. Simply add water that has been boiled and cooled, 9 parts to Water Glass 1 part. Mix well and pour this solution in a stone jar having the capacity twice the volume of the prepared solution and place in clean fresh eggs, as obtained, being careful not to crack them. Do not wash eggs—it injures them. The solution should stand two inches above the top layer of eggs. Keep covered to prevent evaporation, and store in a cool place. Should any of the solution be lost through evaporation, it may be replaced by the addition of water that has been boiled and cooled.

NOTES

Infertile eggs keep best.
Be sure to use a good heavy grade of Water Glass. It should weigh 11½ pounds to the gallon.
One pint of Water Glass will preserve about 8 dozen eggs.
Before boiling preserved eggs, prick a tiny hole in the large end of the shell with a needle to keep them from cracking.
A fresh egg, when placed in plain water, will sink to the bottom and lie horizontal.
A doubtful egg will stand on end or float.
A bad egg floats.
You can save fresh eggs for winter use for 3 cents a dozen.

The Best of the Bargain

When you buy advertised goods you are getting the best of the bargain.

Only good goods, fairly priced, can stand the strain of advertising.

You can't imagine a merchant or manufacturer advertising a lot of articles that are poor in quality, poor in make, and that will not give reasonable wear. Such goods can't stand the strain of advertising. The business can't stand the strain of public condemnation.

When a merchant signs his name to a statement he is careful of what he says. When the whole reputation of his business is at stake, he is doubly careful. When that statement is being sent out to all the people, so that anything in it that is not true will be known to all of his employees and most of his friends; then you may be sure he is ten times doubly careful.

So when you buy advertised goods you get the best of the bargain, because they must be as advertised.

That is why it pays you to read advertisements, and to buy the goods advertised. Advertising protects you. Read it and get the best of the bargain.

AMERICA TO LIVE UP TO HER MISSION

come there from the four quarters of the globe—and other quarters too. They know only their own tongue and they know no ideals except those which they brought with them, if any at all.

"Though you change a man's climate, you can not change his blood. It takes years to put the complexion on your face although women are trying to heighten the effect somewhat."

"I am not asking you to sit down with my pessimism, neither am I expecting you to be riotously optimistic," Dr. Cadman said, as a preface to his description of the conditions which exist in Europe. He painted a rather dark picture and closed with the exhortation:

"When you go home tonight, even though you are not in the habit of doing it, get down on your knees and thank God that you live in the United States of America."

In pointing out the mission of America, the speaker commented on the coming of the pilgrims "who sought not gold but God," and briefly passed over the great men of American history to whom we owe a great debt for our present position in world affairs.

"Some folks say wrap up our Americanism and keep it like a woman does her good looks," Dr. Cadman said, "but if we did that we would accomplish nothing. Our forefathers did not do that. The knew no fear. They spoke fearlessly to kings and potentates. It is our duty as a nation to maintain those great tasks which they took up; not ask for lighter burdens but stronger backs."

"No man can be a true loyal character and say that he loves any country better than his own. No man ever married his wife because he loved her relatives. He may in time come to love them, but he first loved his wife and then he may be able to swallow the relatives. When it comes to a man's country, there can be no divided allegiance."

The speaker paid a tribute to the characteristics of many other peoples and then pointed out that they are all combined in Americans. He declared that the homogeneous character of the Americans gives them variety.

He declared that hyphenism is not as dangerous as we are told and that education will remove much of it. Dr. Cadman asserted that America's salvation lay in its ability to educate its people, pointing to the fact that it stood sixth in the list of nations in education. He made a plea for a lessening of the race towards the dance of death and the spending of money which is being put in argument towards the education of the people.

"But there is virtue in ignorance and vice in education," he continued. "What we need is the guidance of God. What we need is less conventional sectarianism. When you build a fence around your religion, you shut out more than you enclose."

The Dixie Duo is composed of two girls from Tennessee who go back more than a half century for their subject matter. They tell stories of the Southland and sing negro ballads in inimitable style. Their entertainment is regarded as one of the most unique on the chautauqua platform this year.

Two other musical treats are in store for chautauqua patrons this year. The Leiter Opera company, a very high class attraction, will give the prelude Friday afternoon and a full concert Friday evening, and closing the chautauqua will be the Sholles orchestra. The latter organization is credited with being an exceptional organization. Mrs. Alice Sherkey Houston, the cooking school speaker and demonstration, says that she had heard the Sholles orchestra this year and they are extraordinarily good.

The Rondoliers, which appeared in a concert Tuesday afternoon and a prelude Tuesday evening, were a great disappointment to the audience as well as the program committee. The personnel was not the same as the organization which the committee engaged something which could not be avoided.

Attendance and interest in the cooking school, which is conducted each afternoon at four o'clock, is increasing each day. There was a crowd of women estimated at five hundred for the demonstration and lecture Tuesday afternoon.

FEARED DEATH BEFORE MURDER

J. W. Kennedy Says His Son Was Uneasy For a Week Before He Was Killed at His Cottage

TELLS OF MEETING WOMAN

Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain Plans to Win Own Vindication by Turning State's Evidence

(By United Press)

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 10—John Belton Kennedy feared death several days before he was murdered at his country home in company with the beautiful Madalynne Connor Obenchain, relatives stated today.

The wealthy broker in connection with whose death Mrs. Obenchain and Arthur Burch are held, was uneasy for a week or so before the murder, J. W. Kennedy, his father, stated.

"I pressed him for the reason," Kennedy said.

"He told me he had met Mrs. Obenchain at the Alexandria hotel the day before and that she had fallen on her knees and urged him to marry her."

Mrs. Obenchain today planned to win her own vindication in connection with the murder of her lover, by turning state's evidence against Arthur Burch, according to indications.

On the eve of the grand jury action on the murder, Mrs. Obenchain made a "clean breast" of her knowledge of the midnight killing.

In a four hour conference with district attorney Woolwine, the beautiful young divorcee was reported to have told everything of her relations with Kennedy and with Burch, son of the Evanston, Ill., minister. Although Woolwine refused to say just what Mrs. Obenchain told him of the killing, he announced she made some new revelations.

On the evidence given him by Mrs. Obenchain and the disclosures from the young minister's son, Woolwine prepared to go before the grand jury today and seek indictment of Burch. He refused to state whether he would ask indictment of Mrs. Obenchain.

The coroner's jury, which ended its investigation with the statement of the father of the slain man against that woman, as he referred to the beautiful Madalynne, returned an open verdict.

The jurors merely stated that they found the wealthy young broker had come to his death from a shot gun held in the hands of an unknown person.

Kennedy's father declared Madalynne had pursued his son and often threatened to kill herself if he did not remain true to her.

Letters made public today which passed between Kennedy and Mrs. Obenchain, revealed that soon after the marriage of the Northwestern University co-ed to Obenchain, a Chicago attorney, the friendship between the woman and Kennedy was renewed. They were lovers previous to her marriage to Obenchain.

The letters showed that Mrs. Obenchain finally obtained her divorce apparently with the understanding that she would marry Kennedy and that the Los Angeles broker's love had cooled by the time she was ready to marry him. She wrote several letters scolding him for his apparent lack of ardor and one in which she apologized for keeping him so late at night when Kennedy's mother apparently called Madalynne's home on the telephone and asked for her son.

Burch was as calm today under the fire which he has faced since he was taken from a train at Las Vegas and brought back to face the murder investigators. He had obtained the advice of an attorney and was prepared to fight the charges to the last.

The state apparently found its greatest difficulty in fastening the murder on Burch through lack of information of Burch's actual movements, the night of the killing. Although automobile tire marks found near the scene of the shooting were said to have coincided with tires of a machine rented by Burch no information can be obtained as to where the gun with which Kennedy was shot, was obtained or what was done with it after the shooting.

Madalynne has refused to state to newspaper men whether she was with Burch the night of the killing or when was the last time she saw him. She also refused to admit she visited Burch at the hotel where he was staying, despite Burch's statement that the girl came to see him disguised with a wig.

The prosecution apparently realizing that its case against Burch would be extremely weak without some information regarding these vital points, was believed to be attempting to induce Madalynne to tell the story in court with promise of immunity.

Madalynne was plainly worried today. She was as pale as death. She faces her fate stoically.

"It makes no difference if I am indicted, nor if I am convicted nor if I am hung" she said. "Belton is dead. They may send me to him if they will".

(Copyrighted 1921 by U. P.)

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 10.—"I still love Belton Kennedy. I do not care what becomes of me—my interests are dead."

Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, held in connection with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, insurance broker, last Friday night, made this declaration in a statement written exclusively for the United Press today.

The woman asserted that Arthur C. Burch of Evanston, Ill., charged with the murder is innocent and that Kennedy was shot by two shabbily dressed men.

Mrs. Obenchain took great care in preparation of the manuscript which was written in her cell at the county jail.

Her version of the "midnight murder" which has never been explained for sheer mystery in the criminal annals of the west contained many interlineations and pencilled corrections. The statement given to the United Press "that the world may know my story" follows:

By MADALYNNE OBENCHAIN (Written for United Press)

I knew that Arthur Burch was coming to Los Angeles and I knew that he had taken rooms at the Russell hotel, just across the street from where Belton Kennedy, had offices. But I knew nothing about Burch's connection with the case and I believe him to be absolutely innocent.

It is not true that I had broken with Belton on the night of the tragedy although I had previously tried to sever the bond which had tied us together. I loved him ever while I tried to quit him. I still love him.

Happenings on the night of the tragedy are imprinted on my mind forever very distinctly but afterwards for days I was dazed. The men who shot him were very shabbily dressed. I did not see or hear a sound, except just before the first shot I heard voices.

They might have been foreigners from their appearance. They were very dark. I could not tell what they said, but I heard them speak.

I positively heard two shots. I did not see any flash. I was standing on the porch of the Beverley Glen bungalow at that time. He said "Good Madalynne."

I ran down the steps after the first shot was fired and leaned over him and said "Belton speak to me."

I screamed for help. I thought we would never get him to the doctor. I did not know for hours that he was gone.

I will not bring my relatives or friends into this tragic affair. It is deplorable. I do not care what happens to me—my interests are dead. My hopes are buried. My life's joys are ended.

There is little left to say, only it is all such a mystery. I have tried to help the sheriff's office get the straight of the story but it seems to grow more complicated and tangled. It seems to me that life's complexities grow greater for me.

Where The Money Goes

As an example of the way in which public funds are uselessly expended, may be cited the pamphlet which was recently distributed by the department of labor, having been published almost a year ago. This pamphlet, which contains 408 pages, deals at length with "Illegitimacy as a Child-welfare Problem."

In the first seventy-two pages there is a very elaborate review of the whole pamphlet showing that a study was made of records of illegitimacy in Massachusetts, with facts and conclusions deduced therefrom. The summary shows that one child in 44 in Massachusetts is born out of wedlock, that about half of the mothers of children born out of wedlock were otherwise of good character, that a large proportion of them were earning their living, that 56 percent of the children so born had care by others than the parents, that illegitimate birth is a disadvantage and embarrassment to the child, that a large proportion of fathers of illegitimate children do not contribute to their support, and that it is necessary for the State to make provision for the support of illegitimate children where the parents fail in this regard. As remedies for illegitimacy it is suggested that improved industrial conditions, education, recreation, supervision of commercialized amusements, and provision for the care of the feeble-minded and defective, would be effective. These facts and conclusions which are here set forth in less than fifty lines, are fully detailed in the 72 pages of the summary of the pamphlet and would have been adequate for all practical purposes without. Most of the facts set forth and remedies suggested are already known in a general way by all social workers and it is doubtful that publication of detailed statistics will aid materially in solving the social problem which is made the subject of the study. In any event, the pamphlet is nearly six times as large as required in order to give all the essential information.

The action of the department of commerce in dismissing two commissioners who accepted tips for performing public duties is a policy that should be adopted throughout the government departments. If men are not willing to serve for the compensation provided by law from the public treasury, they should be relieved. There can be no equality of service where some of the patrons tip public officials.

The Knights of Columbus are to be commended, for their declaration against any "drive" for funds for work for disabled soldiers. In the first place the public is tired of "drives" for funds. And, which is more important, if disabled soldiers need assistance, the government should provide it amply and without delay.

Japan objects to opening any "settled" issues. But there may be a difference of opinion as to just what is "settled". No question is settled until it is settled right.

It is hardly surprising that some wives go through their husband's trousers pockets at night. They have none of their own.

The mental superiority of some people only serves to emphasize their physical inferiority.

Tax Exempt Securities
(St. Louis Times)

Senator Reed Smoot has offered a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This is significant. The Utah Senator does not belong to the Ought to be a Law Club, nor to any movement for scrapping the Constitution. He venerates that document. He is, as the naturalization question puts it, "favorably disposed to the American form of government." He has often turned cold water on the enthusiastic demands for change made by Senators La Follette, Johnson, Borah and Norris.

But he would prevent the future issue of tax-exempt securities by nation, States or subdivisions of States. He is supported, in theory, by the leading economists of the world, but his action is based less on their theories than on the conditions which stare the government in the face.

Various estimates of tax-exempt or partly tax-exempt securities now outstanding have been made. It is safe to put it at a $35,000,000,000, and the amount is being expanded almost daily. Some of these securities enjoy greater tax exemptions than the great bulk of direct bonds of the Federal Government. All obligations of States and subdivisions are in this position and the making of the mortgage bonds of the Farm Land Banks "governmental instrumentalities" is rapidly adding to the amount, since the Supreme Court has upheld this novel classification.

With the surtax on income, the ultra rich are fast acquiring the tax-exempt securities. A graduated tax on corporations—indefensible in theory, for all surtaxation is based on the ability of the individual to pay whereas the smallest holders of corporate stock are treated as if they were millionaires—has made investments in stock unremunerative.

Two baneful results are inevitable. The burden of taxation, certain to be heavy for many years, will be shifted to the least able taxpayers, and it will be difficult to find money for capital purposes. If money cannot be found, the only recourse will be the embarking of nation, state and municipalities into enterprises whose capital will be supplied through the sale of bonds. History has many warning examples of the results of such policy. Many States were bankrupted at three periods in our history by similar experiments.

The theory on which the Supreme Court early held State bonds untaxable was the venerable one that the power to tax is the power to destroy and that if the Federal Government taxed the securities of a sovereign State, it could destroy that State. But an amendment prescribing that a Federal tax should not be any more severe on a State's securities than on those of the Federal Government would cure this, for then the nation could not destroy the State without committing suicide.

Senator Smoot may not receive much immediate support in Congress for his resolution, but he is on the right track and his agitation of the subject will do great good in enlightening people who have given the peril little or no attention.

Indiana Came Close To Having Volcanoes Within Her Borders

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 10.—How close did Indiana come to having volcanoes within her borders?

This is a question which has been raised by recent investigations made by the division of geology of the state conservation department, according to a report submitted by Dr. W. N. Logan, state geologist. One of the prominent geological features of northern Indiana, says the report is a great arch which extends across the northern portion of the state. This arch of the sub-strata is an extension of what is known as the "Cincinnati Arch" and is a great fold of rocks made up of smaller rocks. Along the surface of the arch there extends a chain of limestone domes. These extend in a line from near Kentland, thru Delphi and Wabash to Huntington, and have been used for lime, crude and ground rock.

Beds of limestone near the center of the domes are in a vertical or nearly vertical position and dip in all directions from the center. Rocks of the main arch and the outer parts of the domes are of the Silurian age. Fossil evidence indicates the rocks of the center domes are much older than the surface bed-rock of the main arch.

Should these rocks prove to be as old as they are assumed to be they must have been thrust upwards nearly 1,000 feet above their original position. It is conceivable, says Dr. Logan, that such a thrust could be formed only by a volcanic plug which, had it reached the surface, would have produced an active volcano in Indiana or, in the event of penetrating all the domes, a chain of volcanoes extending from Kentland to Huntington.

In the opinion of Dr. Logan the co-operation of some public spirited cities is needed in order that a dome may be core drilled to the depth at which the volcanic plug presumably exists.

Policemen Pick Worms Off of Park Shrubbery

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 10.—The entire Columbus police force was called out today to arrest an army of bag worms, which had invaded the park. The worms were rapidly destroying the shrubbery when the attention of the police was called to them. The police waged a gallant campaign and a three gallon bucket was filled with the shrub eating creatures.

Now, the bag worm is peculiar.

It is thick and rather bloated. The only way to combat it is to pick it off the shrubs by hand. The copper's thumb and forefinger lack the dainty touch of a Lady Raffles. Hence, many of the worms became major casualties before they struck the bucket.

Each casualty splashed the hand-some uniforms of the officers and they cursed the county agent who advised the tedious method.

Buying on a Falling Market

On a falling market men and women buy prudently. Whether they wish to purchase a pound of prunes or a million-dollar estate they are inclined to shop 'round a bit before investing.

In times like these they read newspaper advertising closely. It is their market barometer.

It tells them what the shifts and changes are in the world of merchandise. It tells of the new things that will better supply old needs.

It tells of new devices to raise the efficiency of store, office or home.

It helps them to true thrift—the spending of their money wisely.

Newspaper advertising, always read, is read more carefully and generally today than ever before.

Newspaper advertisers are getting results, because it is to the newspapers that people with money to spend are looking for advice.

Watching The Score Board

Yesterday's hero—Babe Adams made a seasons record by winning his ninth straight game in pitching the Pirates to a four to two win over the Robins. Walker and Welch beat the Cleveland Indians 4 to 3. Walker hit a homer and Welch hit a single, double and triple and knocked in the winning run.

Meusel hit a homer with the bases clogged but Mays wobbled in two innings and the Yanks lost to the White Sox, 5 to 4.

Frisch, Burns and Snyder hit homers but the Cubs liked the pitching of Toney and Douglas so well that they trimmed the Giants 8 to 7. Southworth tripled with the bases full in the seventh and in the ninth inning cut off the tying run at the plate, the Braves beating the Cards 4 to 3.

The Brown scored two runs in the nineteenth inning and won the longest game of the season from Washington, 8 to 6. The game was won by Sisler's single, a pass to Williams, Jacobson's single an intentional pass to Severid and Gerber's infield out.

After Bill Donovan has been officially canned the Phils went out and lost to the reds 7 to 4. Monroe's errors let in three runs.

The Red Sox beat the Tigers 4 to 1 and 8 to 7, and made it ten victories in a row.

KING BEATS BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

Bangkok, Siam (By Mail to U. P.)—Here's how to jilt a girl without risk of a suit for breach of promise. You have to be an eastern potentate to get away with it, however.

When King Rama VI of Siam met Princess Vallabha Devi on a shopping expedition, he announced by royal proclamation that he proposed marrying her, and the local press daily referred to the couple as the Sun and Moon, with true Eastern reverence.

When however, he changed his mind recently, the King did it this way, also by Royal Proclamation of which the following is a full translation:

BY COMMAND OF THE KING'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY

"Whereas, in proclaiming His Majesty's betrothal and for this purpose promoting Mom Chow (Her Serene Highness Princess) Vallabha Devi to the title of Phra Varakanyapadan, (the King's betrothal) Phra Ong Chow (Her Royal Highness) (Princess Vallabha Devi, His majesty had no other desire than firmly and definitely to ensure the succession to the throne with a view to the good of the country, as well as the happiness of his own person.

"And whereas, to His Majesty's deepest regret, it has now become apparent, beyond all doubt, that His Majesty's noble desire, as above stated, cannot satisfactorily be met owing to the incompatibility of temperament between His Majesty and Her Royal Highness Princess Vallabha Devi, which may be accounted for by the chronic indisposition of the Princess, whose nervous system leaves much to be desired, so much so that His Majesty is under the apprehension lest in the event of the royal marriage being permitted to take place undesirable consequences may follow in regard to the succession to the Throne.

"Now, therefore, His Majesty has commanded that the Proclamation relating to His Majesty's betrothal is hereby annulled.

Authorities are looking for the husband, Ora Hunt, whom they say is the leader of a whiskey ring operating in Shelby and Bartholomew counties.

Bill Doak failed to cover first base in a game between St. Louis and Philadelphia and deprived himself of a no-hit game. Williams got the hit.

Sisler, of the Browns, made his third homer in successive games. Boeckel and Ford doubled in the eleventh inning and the Braves beat the Reds.

SOVIET DECLARES FOR WORLD PEACE

Leonia Krassin, Discusses Economic Situation in Russia and Urges Rehabilitation

OPPOSE UNDERHAND WARFARE

Russia is Willing to Begin New Task
Because Country is in Dire Need
He Asserts

By LLOYD ALLEN

London, Aug. 3 (By Mail)—Painting a picture of the world's desperate economic situation, Leonid Krassin, Chief of the Russian Trade Delegation to England pleaded cessation of open and underhand warfare with Russia, as a means of hastening world economic rehabilitation.

Krassin, who is recognized in England as a veteran business administrator, and who is Soviet Russia's chief diplomatic representative in Western Europe, suggested creation of an international organization controlling and apportioning enormous stocks of the industrial countries.

Such an organization, he informed the United Press, in an exclusive interview, would not only pay a profit on capital invested, but would also ameliorate world-wide economic distress.

"If we cast a general glance at the economic position of the whole world today", Krassin declared, "we shall discover an absolutely grotesque fact."

"On the one hand, hundreds of millions of persons in Central Europe and in Russia are suffering from lack of food, boots and clothing; extreme disorganization of transport, destruction of machinery and fittings in factories and workshops, owing to absence of repairs during the war, extreme shortage and even complete, lack of agricultural implements, of fertilizers and farming requisites.

"At the same time the stores for all the industrial firms of Western Europe are full of manufactured goods which can find no purchaser.

Here, Krassin suggested his idea of an international consortium.

The practical path towards the elimination of this crying and ridiculous contradiction can be found only in the formation of a kind of international organization or consortium which shall receive control of all the enormous stocks of the industrial countries and shall apportion them amongst the countries, whose economic structure has been exhausted and destroyed—and first of all Russia.

"And in a very few years this measure, which does not demand in reality any very large expense, since it consists only in a rational and productive utilization of goods and instruments of production which have been lying idle for three years now, will return not only the 'capital expended' but also a profit in the form of raw materials and food-stuffs."

HIGHSET DAM IN WORLD PLANNED FOR CALIF.

More Than Five Million Acres of Barren Desert Can be Turned Into Farming Land

TO BE 550 FEET HIGH

San Francisco, Aug. 10—More than five million acres of barren desert can be turned into rich farming land by the construction of the proposed Boulder Canyon dam across the Colorado river, according to J. B. Lippincott, reclamation engineer, formerly of the United States geological survey.

The proposed dam, to be the highest in the world, is to be 550 feet high, it is planned. It will be capable of storing 24,000,000 acre feet of water and will develop, 1,000,000 horse power, more than the total hydro-electric power now developed by California projects.

Lippincott compares the Colorado river to the Nile in the way the two rivers deposit vast quantities of silt to the lands they irrigate. This silt, he says, acts as a fertilizer, and makes the desert soil suitable for the culture of almost any product.

The United States government owns more than 1,000,000 acres in the region which would be transferred into valuable farming land by the consummation of the project.

GRANT VETOED BONUS MEASURE IN YEAR 1875

President Harding Repeated History
When Appeared Before Congress
Opposing Bonus Bill

BASED ON THE SAME REASONS

Washington Aug. 10—When President Harding appeared before Congress a few days ago to oppose the passage of the Bonus bill he repeated history. President Grant, in the spring of 1875, vetoed a soldiers' bonus bill which had been passed by both branches of Congress. The veto was based upon substantially the same reasons as those presented by President Harding a few days ago when he urged a postponement of consideration of a bonus to ex-service men. The bonus bill of 1875 provided for the payment of $8 1-3 a month for all those in service. President Grant's veto message read as follows:

"Washington, March 3, 1875
"To the House of Representatives:

"House Bill 3,341 is herewith returned without my approval for the reasons, first, that it appropriates from the Treasury a large sum of money at a time when the revenue is insufficient for current wants and this proposed further drain on the Treasury. The issue of bonds, authorized by the bill to a very large and indefinite amount would seriously embarrass the refunding operations now progressing, whereby the interest of the bonded debt of the United States is being largely reduced. The passage of this bill at this time is inconsistent with the measures of economy now demanded by the necessities of the country.

From tip to tip of the birds wings was five feet eight inches. The distance from its feet to its head was four feet, four inches.

ICE BOUND FOUR YEARS STUDIES ARCTIC LIFE

Capt. Joseph Bernard on Way to Another Expedition to Study Anthropology of Frozen Regions

MADE SEVERAL OBSERVATIONS

(By United Press)
Seattle, Aug. 10.—Captain Joseph E. Bernard, scientist-explorer, was for four years ice-bound in the frigid wastes of the Arctic.

Bent on out Villjamuring Stefansson, he is going back for more. He is now on the way to Nome, Alaska, to equip another expedition to study the anthropology of the frozen regions.

Commanding the schooner Teddy Bear, Capt. Bernard set out from Nome in 1916, proceeding to Coronation Gulf, 1400 miles to the north. Here the heavy ice hemmed in the vessel which was turned eastward along the Arctic Islands. On August 19, 1917 off Taylor Island, the Teddy Bear was frozen fast in the ice, and there it remained, according to Capt. Bernard, until September 1919.

So Capt. Bernard had plenty of time to make observations. Here are some that he made:

That the Arctic peoples are being exterminated by disease and contact with civilization.

That food and clothing producing caribou are becoming extinct and that within ten years the Canadian government will be forced to provide for their subsistence.

NEW FACES FOR OLD BY PARIS SURGEON

By EDWIN W. HULLINGER
(By United Press)
Paris, (By Mail)—At last ladies, you can get a brand new face for 3,000 francs (about $300 at present rate of exchange) in Paris, made according to any of the most approved styles of beauty you may pick.

Nor will it be a makeshift or camouflage job. Your features can actually be refashioned, even if it be necessary to remold the bony framework of the face. This can be done by facial surgery and without pain—beyond that occasioned by the parting with the $300.

Doctor Jack Brettmon, one of the world's foremost experts in facial surgery is authority for this statement.

Doctor Brettmon recently opened a hospital in Paris where he does nothing but "make over" old faces, reendowing them with their lost youth or remodel young faces removing facial defects imposed by birth.

Many European women and a few Americans have already been operated upon successfully, according to Doctor Brettmon, and many more are planning to obtain new faces in this way during the summer.

In the beautiful reception room of his "Hospital of Aesthetics" on rue Rivoli, Dr. Brettmon told a correspondent his experiences correcting the sculpture of Nature and combatting the imprints of years. He is also a sculpture of no mean ability. In his studio were three or four plaster casts done by him.

"Partly as a result of experiments with wounded men during the war, facial surgery has now reached a stage where the human face, deformed by malformation at birth or weathered by fatigue or time, can be recut or rejuvenated much as a serviceable but out-of-date garment can be remembered and imbued with the seasons latest curves," he declared.

"No longer does Antoinette need remain a back number because she happened to be born with a crooked nose. She can take a limousine to a beauty hospital look through the nose catalog, pick out a Roman, Greek, or best American nose and in less than a week be back in the Opera box with as pretty a member as any girl in the house. Many, many girls miss being extraordinarily beautiful simply through malformation of one feature of the face".

New noses cost from 1,500 francs ($150) up, he said.

School Children's Eyes

Make this school year easier for your child by having its eyes attended to NOW. If you protect the naturally defective eyes of youth, you are repaid with a strong eye in after life. Abuse the immature eye and it will necessitate glasses—not for a few months only, but for a lifetime.

Many a child has been a dullard at school and a failure in after life simply because some defect in vision made it impossible to see things clearly.

The brain gets most of its information through the eyes, and if the eyes are defective the child is woefully handicapped.

Let us examine your child's eyes now.

Health First Should Be Our Slogan, Says Dr. J. N. Hurty

By Dr. J. N. HURTY
Secretary State Board of Health
(Written for United Press)

Health First should be our slogan. Our health is only about 50 per cent of what it should be. Ill health, sickness and disease, with their cost and inefficiency and their train of social and political ills, are not visited upon us. We invite them and they come.

Hospitals are in a degree monuments to ill health. We would not need them to so great an extent if we would obey the laws of our well-being. The number of cases of sickness we have is a measure of our disregard of health. A sick man is unfortunate in his sickness, but is more unfortunate in being so impractical to so live as to become sick.

Here is a list of the major preventable diseases which undermine our strength and character, cost millions, cause sterility, pauperism, crime and delinquency, and even threaten the existence of our race. They are syphilis, gonorrhea, soleriosis, heart diseases, tuberculosis, kidney diseases, liver diseases, intestinal diseases. These maladies can and must be fought and reduced. They are monsters which weaken and kill.

From this lethargic and unreasonable state we must arouse ourselves if we wish to experience health, strength, wealth and happiness. These great blessings cannot be obtained from drugs and hospitals, or by wishing for them. They come through right living.

We neglect our children. This is proven by the fact that actual inspections find that fully 70 percent need more or less medical attention. They sicken and die by thousands and the short coffin industry grows apace. Bad teeth are almost universal, and the suffering and hindrance to moral, intellectual and physical development due to bad teeth is incalculable. It is, of course, a sin of omission on the part of parents and government to fail to have and rear healthy, happy children. Yet we stupidly commit this sin, for which we will not be held guiltless.

The medical findings among drafted men during the war were startling and proved that this great nation is only fifty per cent efficient. The findings made it plain that we are not a nation of 100,000,000 people, but really of only 50,000,000. This was because of sickness, disease and deformity, most of which were acquired through wrong living in childhood.

The State Board of Health presents the above truths and urges business men, all local authorities, and all citizens to consider them and speedily conclude and act upon the fundamental principle that is expressed in this slogan:

"The most important business before the business man today is the business of the public health."

'TAS A SURPRISE TO HER NEIGHBORS

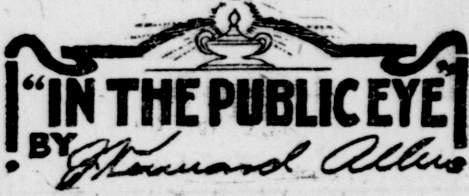

Terre Haute Woman is Restored to Health After Six Years of Suffering

"Since my remarkable restoration to health I believe everybody in our neighborhood is talking about Tan-lae," said Mrs. Mary A. Peyron, 94 Pugh Ave., Terre Haute, Ind.

"My health failed about six years ago as a result of stomach trouble, and no one will ever know what I suffered during all these years. I lived on a rigid diet, not daring to eat the things I liked most, but even as careful as I was I suffered tortures at times from indigestion. My back hurt me, too, and as I couldn't get in a comfortable position I got very little sleep at night. I got thinner and weaker every day and was as despondent as a person ever gets to be. In fact I gave up all hope of ever being well again.

"This was the condition from which Tan-lae rescued me and I will be grateful to it the longest day I live. I'm like a different person now, eating anything I want, sleeping all night long without waking once and getting up in the morning as refreshed and happy as I used to do before my troubles began. I have gained eleven pounds in weight too, and it's easy to believe what everybody tells me—that I'm the picture of health. My advice to everybody who suffers like I did is to get Tan-lae."

Tan-lae is sold in Rushville by F. B. Johnson Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere. Advertisement

CHERRY SISTERS BACK ON STAGE

Old Feminine Theatrical Stars Will Leave Simple Life for Lights of Broadway

WON'T DANCE IN THE FUTURE

Will go in For Vaudeville Sketches and Gestures—Once Called "Scarecrows"

(By United Press)

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 10.—Broadway is in the thrill of its blase existence.

The Cherry Sisters are coming back.

The old histrionic artists who ever made world wide reputation dodging aged vegetables and who gave their performance behind screens to protect them from the deluge of leguminous bouquets that greeted their efforts are tired of the farm.

"Yes", Effie Cherry told the United Press. "Yes, young men Aggie and I have decided to go back on the stage. We are tired of our bucolic life. We are negotiating with Will Harris, of New York and expect to accept engagements this fall probably on Broadway."

"We yearn for applause and receptions we used to get. It is true the audiences used to throw things at us, but that was part of the program. It was so amusing to dodge abbagges and bunches of carrots and onions and things."

The advent of the Cherry Sisters to stage fame followed an amateur performance many years ago. The issued a dramatic critic who said they were "scarecrows." The judge evidently agreed with the critic when he refused to give judgment. This gave them nation wide publicity and then they went into vaudeville.

"We will sing and act" said Miss Effie. "N o I don't think we will dance any more, but we will have little sketches—gestures and all. Aggie and I wanted to return to the stage a few years ago but the flu epidemic stopped us. It is always something it seems. We gave a performance in the opera house here recently and got a splendid reception."

The Cherry sisters are now onto middle age. They own a farm and have been successful in raising vegetables and other produce they used to receive in another way on the stage.

BILL PROVIDES JOBS FOR ONE MILLION MEN

Interstate Commerce Committee Opens Hearing on Administration Railroad Credit Bill

WOULD HAVE MANY EFFECTS

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 10.—Jobs for one million idle men will be provided if congress passes the administration railroad credit bill. Eugene Meyer head of the war finance co-operation declared today before the senate interstate commerce in opening its hearing on the bill.

It would put $200,000 men immediately at work making railroad equipments and would gradually result in reopening of industries at present closed or were operation on reduced basis.

Interwoven effects of the bill are—improvement of the market for farm production; release of frozen credits in grain; further help of general business; advancement of the time when railroad rates can be reduced; increase in government revenue by reason of increase in general business.

Railroad rates Meyer said should be reduced as soon as railroad business is restored. The railroads he added, are in his opinion willing to reduce rates as soon as feasible. But if the are not the interstate commerce commission has full power to control their earnings.

Passage of this bill together with the farm credit bill in my opinion should mark the beginning of the end of acute depression and contraction.

Amusements

Neal Hart Coming to Mystic

No Neal Hart picture is complete without a real smashing big fight—for if there is one thing that "America's Pal" is particularly good at it is fighting. "Danger Valley", his latest release, is no exception and it is said that the fight Hart puts up in this desert drama is even better than the famous one in "Skyfire", which took place in the darkness of night. "Daguer Valley" will be seen at the Mystic theatre Saturday.

Discovers a Hard Task

What is the most difficult task in the world?

"Finding an absinthe bottle", answers the property man for William D. Taylor, Paramount producer.

The Eighteenth Amendment makes it harder under any circumstances to find "booze wrappers"—but those of the absinthe kind are almost unobtainable as the drink has been prohibited in France, its native country, for lo, these many years.

It took ten years to find the three absinthe bottles which are vital props in "Sacred and Profane Love" starring Elsie Ferguson, which will be shown at the Princess Theatre today and Thursday. It is a William D. Taylor production for Paramount.

The absinthe plays a prominent part in the production as it is the efforts of Carlotta played by Miss Ferguson, to regenerate the sodden Diaz that provide some of the most dramatic incidents in the entire picture. Miss Ferguson rises to great dramatic heights in this picture. The cast includes Conrad Nagel, Thomas Holding, Winifred Greenwood, Raymond Brathwayt, Jane Keckley and Howard Gaye.

"The Lottery Man". Murat

"The Lottery Man", another amazingly amusing comedy, will be presented by the Stuart Walker Company at the Murat all next week. In "The Lottery Man" Rida Johnson Young has seized upon a prevalent custom of some newspapers to increase their circulation by various schemes. Mrs. Young has made her central figure a newspaper reporter. Jack Wright owes his employer a sum of money and to square the account agrees to turn in one of the most sensational scoops the paper has ever known. His idea is for the sheet to conduct a lottery with himself as the prize. The proprietor explains that lotteries are against the law, but this point is evaded on account of the fact that the law says "prizes shall not be given away". Wright is to give himself away. The lottery is announced. Thousands of old maids buy coupons at one dollar each. Meantime Wright falls in love with a charming girl. Naturally he fears that he may be won by someone else and he starts a crusade to get possession of as many tickets as his limited means will permit.

Finally the last day of the lottery is at hand. The winning number is 1323, and it is held by Lizzie, a homely spinster in the household of the newspaper owner. Lizzie refuses to give up. She has waited many years for a husband, but just when it looks as if Jack Wright were destined to be Lizzie's lawful wedded, the reporter discovers that she has stolen the lottery ticket from the cook. Of course the coupon is surrendered and young Wright gets the right girl.

The bare outline of the plot gives little idea of the genuine fun and wholesomeness of the comedy. In the Stuart Walker production the two star parts, that of Jack Wright and Lizzie, will be played by McKay Morris and Elizabeth Patterson.

There will be matinees on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

ENROLL ABOUT 100 GIRLS IN SCHOOL

State Fair School of Home Economics Prepared to Make Better Housekeepers and Managers

65 ATTENDED LAST YEAR

Girl From Each County With Highest Standing in Clubs Will be Chosen to Attend School

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, August 10.—Absorbing new visions of home management, girls from all over the state who attend the State Fair School of Home Economics this year will be prepared to make better housekeepers and better home managers for their farmer husbands. I. Newt Brown, secretary of the new Indiana Department of Agriculture, said in an interview today.

The state fair school of home economics was founded three years ago by the State Fair Board. Then it had an enrollment of forty students. Last year there were 65, and Brown said he expected nearly a hundred to attend this year's term.

The school is to be held in the Woman's Building at the fair grounds. On the first floor is the kitchen, where the students prepare their meals, seek cooking demonstrations and hear lectures on kitchen economics. Adjoining the kitchen is the dining room, where the girls serve meals prepared by their fellow students. Dormitories for the girls are on the second floor.

In addition to cooking and dining room instruction, the girls are to be given health and physical culture talks, and will be taken on shopping expeditions. On these trips, Brown said, the girls will be taken to the department stores, the city market house, bakeries, packing houses and flour mills to get a general idea of food and clothing values and become more intimately acquainted with the methods of preparing foods.

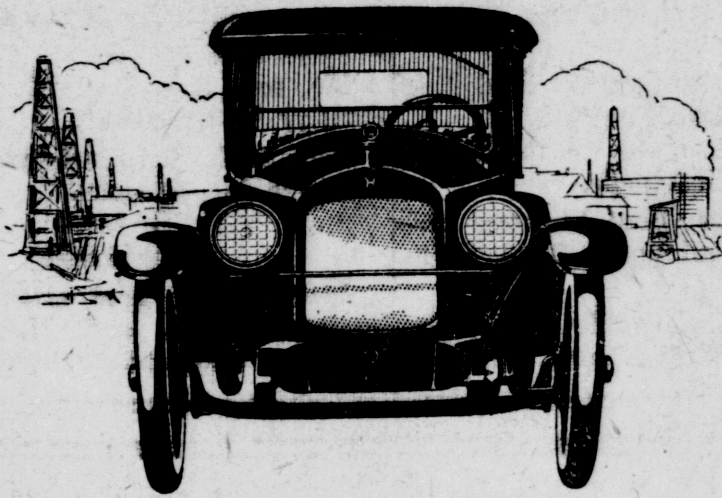

In selecting these students, he said, a girl from each county with the highest ability and the highest standing in farm clubs will be chosen and all her expenses will be paid by the state.

Mrs. Charles M. Lindley of Salem, Mrs. Charles of Otterbein, and Mrs. Louis Taylor of Newburgh are to be the instructors. All three have done field lecture work at Purdue University.

The spring wheat crop will total 213,000,000 bushels and the winter wheat crop will average 544,000,000 bushels. Today's forecast was passed on a report of the average condition of 66.6 percent normal in winter wheat on August 1 as compared with 80.8 percent of normal in spring wheat on July 30.

Several Thousand Employees in Maintenance Department Work on State Highways

PROGRESS MADE ON ROADS

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 10.—Several thousand employees of the maintenance department of the state highway commission working on 51 state roads in about 60 counties of Indiana, drew salaries aggregating $114,000 for the month of June, records in the office of Lawrence Lyons department director, show.

That not only individuals but communities, firms and various business interests profit by the road building and maintenance activities of highway work, is evidenced in the fact the commission paid to contractors for work constructed in June $725,000, and the maintenance department spent $153,000 for material. In every instance possible, Mr. Lyons says, material is purchased in the community where work on which it is to be applied is in progress. In this manner practically every community in the state benefits, for the monies are soon in circulation in various channels of local trade.

* WITHOUT SPEED LIMIT *

London, Aug. 10.—Country people are awaiting with concern and motorists with joy the removal of the speed limit in England.

Week-ends at present are terrors to the rural districts. Motorcycles, bicycles, runabouts, touring cars and the whizzing juggernauts of char-a-banes with their twenty or forty passengers tear up the narrow lanes of the green English countryside.

Nobody knows what's going to happen when, as planned during the next few weeks, the speed limit is withdrawn and police court charges against offending motorists become "reckless" instead of merely "fast" driving.

ARCOS BUYING FOR RUSSIA'S MILLIONS

Soviet Russia Has Established Branch of World's Greatest Buying Corporation in London

HEADQUARTERS IN MOSCOW

There Are Arcos Branches in Stockholm, Reval, Berlin and One or Two Other Cities

By LLOYD ALLEN,
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

London (By Mail)—Soviet Russia has established a branch of the world's greatest buying corporation here in London. It is called the All-Russia Co-Operative Society, but is generally known by the simpler title of Arcos and is buying goods for the 150,000,000 people of Russia.

Six months from date the Soviet representatives in London believe Arcos, in addition to being the world's greatest buying concern will also be the greatest selling corporation on the globe, because they say by that time Arcos will be disposing of the products of Russia's 150,000,000 workers.

Great headquarters of Arcos is in Moscow and goes by the Russian name of Narkomvneshtorg, which means, in plain United States, "Peoples' Commissariat for Foreign Trade", with Leonid Krassin as chief, dividing his time between London, Berlin and Moscow.

There are Arcos branches in Stockholm, Reval, Berlin and one or two other European cities, as well as in London.

It has a staff of 200, including board of directors and a number of experts in the various lines of trade also engineering experts and so forth.

Six months hence the Soviet representatives expect to be using a staff of between 500 and 600 to carry on rapidly growing trading operations and eventually a staff of 1000 will be required.

In furtherance of these somewhat elaborate plans, a big building has been bought and paid for in hard cash for consideration of £250,000—nominally about $1,000,000.

This building will accommodate the 100 workers previously mentioned. It is located on Moorgate street, close to the great Bank of England in the midst of London's financial district. It will be a principal trading center for Russia.

A second set of offices will be maintained on New Bond Street, (London's exclusive shopping street) where Leonid Krassin now has his headquarters.

Russia's diplomatic affairs will some of these days be administered from the former Imperial Russian Embassy, according to Soviet expectations.

Just now possession of the luxurious embassy is impossible—but when the Russian political treaty is signed between Great Britain and Soviets, the embassy will be turned over to the present Moscow government and Soviet circles predict, and presumably the Red Flag of Sovietism will be flown from flag-staffs that once held the Imperial Russian banner of the Czarism days.

The foregoing describes only part of Soviet Russia's business invasion of England. Another important feature of the huge trading machine now being created will be a Soviet bank.

Three steps have been taken since the signing of the Anglo-Russian Trade agreement last Spring, which has been formally interpreted by the British Foreign Office as Britain's recognition of the de-facto Russian government.

SUMMER TOURISTS FLOCKING TO WEST

Portland is Clearing House For Hundreds of Travelers Each Day
This Time of Year

IN CLASS BY THEMSELVES

Modern Gypsy Travel in Touring Cars With Neatly Arranged Cases Containing Baggage

Portland, Ore. Aug. 10—Gone are the slow-moving vans, the moth-eaten wagons with their worse moth-eaten steeds, the canvas-covered prairie schooners. The tourist of yester-year has been relegated to the limbo of oblivion with the advent of the flivver and the paved highway.

The modern gypsy is here!

Portland is the clearing house for hundreds of tourists each day at this time of year. And these tourists are in a class by themselves.

California or Canada bound, they are pouring over the highways of the Northwest—an animated, good-natured, Goth-like hoard, roving of eye, cheerful of countenance, and amiable of disposition.

In vehicles of all sorts they come, from touring cars with neatly arranged cases containing baggage to big lumberlike bodies mounted on "flivvers" chassis, in which whole families live day in and day out, and from whose windows the eager faces of children peer and from whose sides float string-loads of varicolored "wash".

No weather can deter them, no hardship can cast them down. They are out for a good time. Some parties have been on the road for months, others have just started.

In the auto camp here license tags from as many as thirty states have mingled their colors and their combinations of numerals. Along the highways drifting smoke betokens the presence of campers along meandering creeks and beside cool rivers.

They are going somewhere. Where?
They don't know.

"We're seeing the country", they say. "We've worked hard for years and now we're taking our vacation.
It's a great life".

It is no uncommon sight to see the puny radiator of a cheap car puffing steam through the water vent as the puny engine beneath the hood battles valiantly to hurry along a barn-like tonneau with a family of a dozen.

The car marauder of it all!

Oh, dad, look, there's the people we saw near Yosemite", a youngster will cry. Or,

"Hello folks. Haven't seen you since we pulled through Fourth of July canyon. How's tricks?" Or,

"By George, we'd sure been out of luck if you folks hadn't loaned us that gasoline there in the desert.

The whole northwest is prevailed with the spirit of the modern gypsy.
And here, where their Mecca seems to be, the long lines of them stretch back into the Middle Western plains up into the mountains of Canada, or down into the rice bottoms of California.

"Make way for the migratory American", mutters the traffic cop, as he swings his semaphore to watch them chug past.

Easy Way To Ward Off Cold

It's better to take a few pleasant little tablets and ward off a cold than to pay big doctor bills and lie in bed for days or weeks with pneumonia.

During the fall and winter months when gripe and pneumonia keep the doctors busy, health authorities urge everyone to "Watch out for symptoms of colds and get after them right off."

Take no chances. At the first sign of sniffing and sneezing get a box of Lightning Laxative Quinine Tablets and stop the cold within 24 hours. Lightning Laxative Quinine Tablets are safe, pleasant; never gripe or sicken. Druggists guarantee them. Only 25c per box.

GIVES EVIDENCE OF HER FRIENDSHIP

England Ready to Discuss With America any Proposal for Limitation of Armaments

DOMINION PREMIERS MEET

Americans in England Send Only One Comment Home to People to Plant More Signs of Good Will

By CLYDE A. BEALS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

London, Aug. 1—(By Mail)—Everything on this side of the water points to the rapid increase of good feeling toward the United States.
The unthinkability of quarreling with America is only rivaled as a popular newspaper topic by the impossibility of war.

"Friendly co-operation with the United States is for us", said Mr.
Lloyd George in his opening address to the Dominion Premiers now meeting in London "a cardinal principle. * * * We are ready to discuss with American statesmen any proposal for the limitation of armaments which they may wish to set out, and we can undertake that no such overtures will find a lack of willingness on our part to meet them".

That, however, only came as a climax to what has gone before, and serves as a keynote for what has gone on since. The last few months have seen a sudden growth of Washington busts and statues in England. The Sulgrave Institution presented three busts, one to Liverpool one to Sulgrave Manor, the home of Washington's ancestors, and the third went to one of the most sacred spots in the British Empire, the crypt of St. Paul's cathedral. The "Heart of England", Trafalgar Square, now treasures a replica of the Houdon statue of Washington, presented by the state of Virginia.

The Marquess Curzon, receiving the statue on behalf of the government, said: "The two great branches of the English-speaking race are now and henceforth indissolubly one. We can never fight again. We can never even quarrel again".

This unveiling occasioned many expressions in London papers to the effect that England would never be satisfied until of her own initiative she had erected a statue of Washington in Westminster Abbey. For England there is no more hallowed spot.

Statues of Lincoln have also become popular. One was placed in a cemetery on Calton Hill in Edinburg shortly after the United States entered the war. About a year ago a statue of him was placed just across the street from the Parliament buildings, though it has been temporarily removed to have a firm base built. Newspaper photographers took snapshots at that unveiling of the Prime Minister singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

All these signs of Anglo-American friendship are being encouraged by British and American societies.
The most remarkable is the English speaking Union. It was founded by twelve Americans and Englishmen in London on July 4, 1918. On the third anniversary of its birth, it had over 5,000 members. The American president is ex-President Taft, and the English president is Arthur J. Balfour. The luncheons and banquets that the Union holds have become the vehicles of semi-official announcements. Ambassador Harvey's formal bow was made at one, the formal bow that caused so much comment all over the world. Ambasador Davis made his farewell at one. The Prime Minister has spoken on occasions, as well as Winston Churchill and other prominent English statesmen.

There are several other such organizations of friendship on a smaller scale. The Anglo-American society recently endowed a chair of American history. Lord Bryce delivering the first lecture. The Sulgrave Institute has already been mentioned. The Pilgrim Society is another.

Working in harmony with all these institutions have been the visits of the Rotarians and the American members of the International Chamber of Commerce. They both made a fine impression.

As one expression of English friendship, Sir Charles Wakefield is presenting to Pittsburgh a bust of Pitt, and to Washington, D. C., a bust of Burke, both of which statesmen were decidedly friendly toward America.

On the Fourth of July when many business houses in London were displaying American and English flags, the London Times one of the world's page American section.

Americans in England, who are delighted at the signs of maturing friendship, send only one comment home to the people coming over to plant more signs of good will.

"Some one ought to tell them", one said, "that the English are very reserved in their sentiment. They never like to have it thrown on with a shovel. The Gettysburg address contains 267 words".

TO MAP DRAINAGE SYSTEM OF STATE

This is a Project Just Launched by State Engineer's Division of State Conservation Dept.

TO TAKE YEAR TO FINISH

Indianapolis Ind., Aug. 10—Mapping the entire drainage system of Indiana and assembling data in order the office may act in an advisory capacity on all future drainage problems, is a project just launched by the state engineer's division of the state conservation department.
It is believed the work undertaken will take at least one year to conclude. The engineer division was created at the last legislature. According to M. J. Stinchfield Jr., assistant state engineer, the state has been divided into ten drainage districts.
Work will start in the Calumet district and the Kankakee district will follow. Each county will be visited by the engineers and complete data produced. The conservation department lately obtained a drainage map compiled by W. M. Tucker of Indiana university, showing county, stream and section lines and the majority of lakes. It is the only map of its kind in existence and department officials plan to permit the public interested to have prints made off it.
